

MOWW Puget Sound Chapter National Security Committee Operating Procedures

MOWW Puget Sound Chapter shall have at least one member who is the National Security Outreach Committee. The National Security Committee is an outreach committee. This committee monitors international threats and United States defense and foreign policy strategies, policies, and procedures about those threats. It focuses on military, political, economic and intelligence decisions as to their impact on the US Armed Forces capabilities to execute strategic and tactical missions that protect the United States from direct or indirect attack. When appropriate, it provides the EXCOM, the national officers and other Companions of the Order the impact of those policies as they regulate military budgeting, personnel ceilings, force development, research and development, the measures that predict the future ability of diplomatic, military and intelligence organizations to react for the good of the nation. It recommends national security positions to the EXCOM, resolutions to the Order in convention, and assists chapters in developing and maintaining a viable National Security Education Program. See also Appendix N of MOWW Policy Manual, and MOWW Form 32, "National Security Committee Guide."
